REPORT CARD | 2017

The sex trafficking law does not apply to buyers, and penalties under the buyer-applicable commercial sexual exploitation of children (CSEC) laws do not reflect the seriousness of those offenses. The sex trafficking law requires proof that force, fraud, or coercion was used even when the victim is a minor, and minors may be arrested for prostitution; however, minors involved in commercial sex are presumed to be trafficking victims.

Criminalization of Domestic Minor Sex Trafficking

New York's sex trafficking law requires a showing that force, fraud, or coercion was used, even when the victim is a minor. New York's CSEC laws include: "promoting prostitution" in the first, second and third degrees, "advancing prostitution," "profiting from prostitution," "patronizing a prostitute" in the first and second degree, "compelling prostitution" of one less than 16, "use of a child under 17 in a sexual performance," and "promoting an obscene sexual performance of a child under 17." New York's prostitution and loitering statutes do not refer to the human trafficking statute to acknowledge the intersection of prostitution with trafficking victimization. New York's racketeering statute includes sex trafficking and CSEC offenses as predicate acts.

Criminal Provisions for Demand

The state sex trafficking law does not prohibit purchasing commercial sex with minors, leaving buyers subject only to a few state CSEC laws. "Patronizing prostitution" distinguishes between buying sex with adults versus minors under 15, with penalties varying based on the age of the minor; however, defendants may assert a mistake of age defense to these crimes. Buyers convicted under the applicable CSEC offenses face penalties ranging from 1–7 years imprisonment and fines up to $5,000. Buyers who use the Internet to purchase sex acts with a minor could be prosecuted under the statute on "disseminating indecent material to minors in the first degree," or the statute penalizing "use of a computer for the purpose of luring or inducing a person under 17 to engage in sexual conduct." Buyers may be required to pay restitution and face forfeiture of assets constituting the proceeds or instrumentality of any crime. Buyers are required to register as sex offenders if convicted of possessing images of child sexual exploitation (ICSE) or any degree of "patronizing a prostitute" when a minor under 17 is involved.

Criminal Provisions for Traffickers

Under the sex trafficking and CSEC laws a trafficker could receive a sentence as high as federal trafficking offenses (10 years–life). Convictions for sex trafficking, "compelling prostitution" of one less than 18 by force, fraud, or coercion, or "promoting prostitution" of a minor under 13 are felonies punishable by 1–25 years imprisonment. "Promoting prostitution" of a minor under 18 or "use of a child [under 16] to engage in a sexual performance" are felonies punishable by 1–15 years imprisonment, whereas "promoting prostitution of a minor" 18–19 or "promoting a sexual performance by a child" under 17 are felonies punishable by up to 7 years imprisonment. All felony sentences may include fines up to $5,000 or "double the amount of the defendant's gain from the commission of the crime," whichever is higher, and victim restitution may be ordered. Traffickers may face forfeiture of all proceeds and instrumentalities of a felony, and forfeiture of all equipment used to create ICSE is mandatory. New York's laws making it a crime in the first degree to "disseminate indecent material to minors" or the statute penalizing "use of a computer for purpose of luring or inducing person under 17 to engage in sexual conduct" (although not specifically commercial) could be used to prosecute the growing number of traffickers using the Internet to commit their crimes. Traffickers are required to register as sex offenders for convictions of sex trafficking, creating ICSE, and some CSEC offenses. Convictions of sex trafficking or CSEC offenses are not grounds for termination of parental rights, but if a trafficker is incarcerated for a significant period of time, parental rights could be terminated.

Criminal Provisions for Facilitators

The sex trafficking statute includes profiting from prostitution but requires use of force, fraud, or coercion. Facilitators could be charged with certain CSEC offenses. Conduct amounting to “aiding or facilitating in an act or enterprise of prostitution of a minor” under 19 is a felony with varying penalties based on the age of the victim: a conviction is punishable by 1–25 years imprisonment if the victim is under 13, or 1–15 years if 13–18. Additionally, “promoting prostitution in the third degree” addresses sex tourism and includes the crime of controlling or owning a business selling travel for the purpose of prostitution. Convictions of “promoting prostitution in the third degree” and “promoting sexual performance of a minor” under 17 are felonies punishable by up to 7 years imprisonment. All felonies are punishable with possible fines up to $5,000 or “double the amount of the defendant’s gain from the commission of the crime,” whichever is higher. For a felony conviction, facilitators may be required to pay restitution and forfeit all proceeds gained from commission of the felony. Facilitators also face mandatory criminal forfeiture of all equipment used to manufacture or distribute ICSE.

Protective Provisions for the Child Victims

Not all commercially sexually exploited children are identifiable as child sex trafficking victims; the trafficking offense is not applicable to buyers and requires force, fraud, or coercion and third party control. Sex trafficking and CSEC offenses do not prohibit a defense based on the willingness of the minor to engage in the commercial sex act. A “sexually exploited child” includes a victim of sex trafficking and prostitution-related offenses. Prostitution laws apply to minors under 18, and while an affirmative defense is available for sex trafficking victims, they still face criminalization for commercial sex acts committed as a result of their victimization. However, a minor under 16 is presumed to be a victim of a severe form of trafficking, and if the minor consents, law enforcement may deliver the victim to a safe house. Upon a motion, the court may substitute a “person in need of supervision” (PINS) petition for the delinquency petition. A minor victim aged 16 or 17 who is arrested for prostitution or loitering may have the criminal charges converted to a PINS proceeding as long as a guilty plea has not been entered. Minor victims may be referred to specialized services, including placement in safe houses staffed by specially trained advocates. However, if the CSEC victim is unwilling to cooperate with specialized services, the delinquency proceedings will continue. For purposes of child welfare intervention, the definition of “abused child” includes victims of sex trafficking, CSEC, and ICSE offenses. The definition of “person legally responsible” includes any “person responsible for the child’s care at the relevant time” but requires presence in the household, which may create a barrier to child welfare intervention. Child sex trafficking victims who suffer physical, mental, or emotional injury are provided exceptions to crime victims’ compensation prompt reporting requirements. Victim-friendly criminal justice procedures are limited. Only children under 14 may testify via closed-circuit television, and the “rape shield” law, which reduces the trauma of cross-examination for testifying victims, does not extend to CSEC victims. Child victims of CSEC offenses are eligible to receive psychosocial and advocacy support services. New York law does not provide a mechanism for minors to vacate delinquency adjudications related to trafficking victimization, and juvenile records may only be sealed after a minor turns 16. Victim restitution for personal injury may be ordered, and sex trafficking victims may bring civil actions for damages. Victims of sex trafficking and CSEC are afforded an extended statute of limitations for civil and criminal actions.

Criminal Justice Tools for Investigation and Prosecution

Training or development of training materials for law enforcement on sex trafficking is not statutorily mandated or authorized, but the social services commissioner is authorized to contract with NGOs experienced in working with CSEC victims to train law enforcement. Single party consent to audiotaping is allowed, and wiretapping is authorized for sex trafficking and “promoting prostitution” in the first and second degree investigations. No law expressly authorizes the use of the Internet by law enforcement to investigate cases of sex trafficking, and neither New York’s CSEC laws nor its trafficking law prohibit an offender from raising a defense based on the use of a law enforcement decoy posing as a minor in an investigation for the buying and selling of sex acts with a child. New York maintains a Statewide Central Register for Missing Children and a Missing and Exploited Children Clearinghouse, and while law enforcement are not required to report missing and located children, state law requires reporting of closed missing children cases.
